Berkshire Museum presents BerkshireNow: Images from the Berkshire Museum Camera Club, October 6 through December 31, 2017

[Pittsfield, Mass.] - The BerkshireNow gallery space at the Berkshire Museum will feature photographs by the members of the Berkshire Museum Camera Club, on view from October 6 through December 31, 2017. The exhibition will open on Friday, October 6, from 5 to 8 p.m., in conjunction with Pittsfield’s First Fridays Artswalk, when the Museum’s BerkshireNow gallery is open to the public at no cost.

Berkshire Museum Camera Club members will display their photographs on a monthly basis. Each month will feature a new theme, depicted with images ranging from landscapes and still lifes to portraits and even photographs that demonstrate new or experimental techniques and technologies.

The Berkshire Museum Camera Club was founded in 1937, dedicated to advancing the art of photography, first with black and white film, then to color, and now exploring the dimensions of digital photography. For 80 years, photographers ranging from novices to experts have participated in various workshops, tutorials, competitions, and exhibitions. Open to everyone, BMCC meets twice a month during the academic year, on the first and third Tuesdays at 7 p.m., at Berkshire Museum. For meeting dates and more information, visit www.berkshirecameraclub.com.
BerkshireNow features four exhibits each year ranging from solo artists to group shows. Outfitting the nine-hundred-square-foot gallery space for the exhibition series was made possible in part by a grant from the Pittsfield Cultural Council.
